SME Summit & Annual Meeting Los Angeles Convention Center March 28-30, 2006

The Society of Manufacturing Engineers (SME) and its Technical Community Network have announced the 2006 SME Summit & Annual Meeting. This conference will create an exciting and dynamic forum for information exchange, networking, presentations on new applications, and developing research on advanced technology spanning the entire manufacturing discipline. Features include: annual meeting components, tours, keynotes, receptions, group lunches, chapter officer & member consultant training and complimentary attendance to the WESTEC exposition.

WESTEC 2006 Exposition and Conference March 27-30, 2006

At WESTEC, attendees will find the latest technologies and applications and learn how to automate their operations. Exhibitors meet with thousands of manufactures looking to upgrade their equipment and build long-term business relationships. In 2006, the upgraded and expanded WESTEC is more than a tradeshow - it's a Total Manufacturing Experience.

In Case You Missed It

On February 16, 2006, Dr. LeRoy Franklin discussed an Eli Lilly project concerning consistency in antibiotic potency of a widely used animal product. Some 22 ASQ, SME, and ASM members were in attendance at Kleptz Tavern & Restaurant in Seelyville. As always, Dr. Franklin made a case study very interesting.
